The little people living in our upstairs brain are our thinkers, they help us to create new things and to problem-solve. The little people living downstairs are our feelers, where they look out for danger and keep us safe. Draw a picture of your own brain house with an upstairs and downstairs, and then try to think of and label at least 3 little people for each floor (for example: Frightened Freddie might live downstairs, whereas Curious Cameron would live upstairs)
